

SILVER PACKAGE: £975

Our journey together will start many months before your wedding day. Once we have met and discussed your photographic requirements for the wedding day itself and then if you go on to commission me to document your wedding day through photography I will ask you to sign a booking form and to pay me a none refundable deposit of £200*. I am then booked to capture your wedding. I only do one wedding per day. Then the fun really begins:

*The balance of the Silver Package of £775 is payable on completion of the album and DVD.

Engagement Portrait Sitting:

A perfect way to get to know my clients is through a portrait photo session. You will be able see how I work, get to know me and you'll become more relaxed about having your photograph taken on your wedding day. So, on a specified day for both the bride and groom I will come to your home or a location of your choice for your engagement portrait sitting. This photo session will last for approximately one hour and in that time we'll be able to capture twenty strong images of you both.

These images will then be altered in to black & white, sepia and enhanced colour. From a contact sheet I will send you, you will then chose the two images you want and I'll have them printed. You will receive two framed 10 x 8" engagement portrait images and you will be raring to go on the wedding day when it come to your wedding photographs.

If your chosen location is more than 15 miles from NG24 3DT a charge of £0.40 per mile over the 30 mile round trip will be added to the balance.

There is no choice with regards to the frame, but I will make sure they complement the images you have chosen.

Your Wedding Day Through Photography: One Photographer Present Throughout The Day

In The Morning: On your wedding day I will arrive at the place where the bride is getting ready approximately 1 hour before she heads off to the wedding venue. I will spend this time taking a few naturalistic shots of the events surrounding the final preparations as well as taking some posed images of the bride and the bridesmaids before I head over to the wedding venue myself. The second photographer will go straight to the wedding venue to capture more images than can usually be obtained with one photographer.

Wedding Venue: Once at the wedding venue the photographer will endeavour to capture your guests arriving and the groom and his groom's men before the ceremony. Again these shots will be naturalistic with only a few posed shots of the groom and groom's men.

Arrival of the Bride: As the bride arrives the photographer continues taking photos of the car or carriage, the bride and the Father of the bride exiting the vehicle and a few images of the bridal party before they head in to the wedding venue and the ceremony.

The Ceremony: During the ceremony it is normal that the photography has to be kept to a minimum. There will be no flash allowed and we will be made to stand at the back out of everyone's way. There I will take a few long shots of your wedding discretely and from a distance. I will capture the signing of the register, whether it is as it happens or through mocking up a couple of images after the register has been signed. Once the ceremony is over the photographer will continue to take pictures of the happy couple as they walk back down the aisle.

Post-Ceremony: As the bride and groom mingle with their guests and to be congratulated the photographer continues, in a discrete manner, to capture these moments naturalistically. The majority of the group shots will be taken either outside the wedding venue or at the reception venue. Please supply me with a list of these group shots to work from so we do not miss any one out.

I normally take the bride and groom aside for a few minutes either at the wedding venue or before the reception gets underway to capture a few intimate and romantic pictures of the newly weds. Then the photographer will take a few more naturalistic shots of the guests at the reception before we do a mock-up of the bride and groom cutting the cake before we leave to let you both enjoy the rest of the day.
